PRESIDENT MOVES TO HELP AREAS STRUCK BY SEVERE DROUGHT

Governors Hear Plans To Relieve Farmers In Arid Sections

WASHINGTON, Aug. 15.—President Hoover today speeded federal agencies into action to provide relief for farmers in a dozen drought stricken states as governors hurried home to launch state and local organizations as a part of a broad-scale relief program.

Confronted with reports that immediate aid is necessary to prevent sacrifice of livestock and perhaps to prevent epidemics of disease in some areas, the president moved swiftly to translate a paper plan into a reality.

The whole program was to be discussed at today's cabinet meeting and later with heads of the three big national farm organizations.

The first presidential act was expected to be the setting up of a federal drought relief co-ordination committee composed of Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture; Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the farm board; Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner; John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross; Dr. Hugh L. Cummings of the public health service and Alfred P. Thom of the American Railway Association.

The plan, as outlined after the conference with governors, includes: Setting up of federal co-ordination committee to work with state and local agencies.

Naming of state drought-relief committees by governors who believe there is such need, and naming of county committees.

Immediate planning to provide relief in loans through the federal farm board, the intermediate credit bank system, or other federal or local agencies.

Organization of committees in drought-ridden counties by the American Red Cross, which has made a preliminary allocation of a fund of $5,000,000.

Collection and dissemination of information concerning sources of feed supply, with Iowa, Nebraska, and other states having a surplus of feed setting up committees to insure a steady flow to needy.

INFANTS ILL FROM CORN LIQUOR

PORTSMOUTH, O., Aug. 15.—Two small sons of Milton Thompson, of South Fulton, Ky., across the Ohio River from here, aged 2 and 4 years, were in a serious condition today after drinking a bottle of the moonshine whiskey. Two other children found the liquor and decided to play policeman. The Thompson children were given the bottle and then were locked in an outhouse.

Members of the family found the two tots several hours later. Both were in convulsions from the effect of the whiskey.

IDENTIFY BANDIT

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 15.—LeRoy Balzhizer, of Lockland, was being held here today after identification as one of the five men who held up and robbed the Mason, O. bank of $8,000 last Jan. 13.

Three officials of the Reading bank said that Balzhizer was also one of five who robbed their bank last April 4.

DEMOCRATIC PARTY REJECTS PROPOSAL FOR WET PLATFORM

Candidates Oppose Plan;
Bulkley Not Decided

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 15.—Possibility that the Democratic party of Ohio will include a "wet" plank in its platform for use in the campaign preceding the November election appeared today to be very remote.

At the meeting of the Democratic state ticket nominees held yesterday, an attempt was made to further the cause of a "wet" plank and to pave the way for including one in the party platform, but the movement met with outright opposition from several candidates.

Nomination of Robert J. Bulkley, Cleveland, for senator by the Democrats stirred up the prohibition issue. Bulkley won the nomination on a "wringing wet" platform. At the same time the Democrats nominated as their candidate for governor George White, Marietta, who not only is a dry but has the endorsement of the Ohio Anti-Saloon League the same as Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, Republican nominee.

At the conclusion of the nominees' meeting the prevailing sentiment seemed to be against mentioning prohibition in the party platform, or if a so-called "wet" plank was included, to tone it down so as to avoid embarrassment to dry candidates on the ticket.

Bulkley, the senatorial nominee, told reporters he had not definitely decided whether he would ask for inclusion in the party platform of a plank demanding repeal of the prohibition law. He said the matter was not discussed formally at the preliminary meeting.

Henry G. Brunner, Mansfield, state executive chairman, will decide the date for the state convention which probably will be held on August 26. It was said, Claude Bowers, New York, and John W. Peck, Cincinnati, were mentioned as probable keynoters for the state convention.

DISPLAYS NERVE IN BANDIT CHASE

Displaying a real brand of courage, Mrs. F. L. Jewett, above, of Point Place, O., after watching two bandits hold up a Point Place bank, followed them in her car to a swamp and watched them hide the loot, $5,000. Detectives searched the marsh and found more than half the money. She is seen here with her dog, who accompanied her on the bandit chase.

HOPE ABANDONED FOR MINERS ENTOMBED BY EXPLOSION IN SHAFT

ENDURANCE FLYERS CONTINUE ALOFT AS 600 HOURS REACHED

Airmen Realize On Record; Set Goal At
1,000 Hours

LAMBERT-ST. LOUIS FIELD, Aug. 15.—Another landmark, or rather airmark, on the way to its goal of 1,000 hours was reached by the endurance plane "Greater St. Louis" at 7:11 this morning when the plane completed its 600th hour in the air.

Neither man nor motor displayed any signs of weakening. Following their feat in passing Hunters' mark by a wide margin and regaining their laurels, Jackson and O'Brien began realizing financial returns on a flight which it seemed for a time would come to a premature end through lack of funds.

The two airmen now received $100 for every hour they add to the Hunters' record, and offers of theatrical and movie engagements have become numerous. Field Manager Oscar Parks who has watched the eternal orange and yellow monoplane lazily above his hangars for nearly a month grew curious today and sent up a message asking the pilots just when they intended to land their ship.

"We'll be down when the motor stops running," was the enlightening message sent by Dale "Red" Jackson and Forrest O'Brien from their world champion endurance plane, the "Greater St. Louis."

Believe Gas Fatal; Rescuers Overcome By Fumes

PRINCETON, B. C., Aug. 15.—Hope of finding the forty-six miners entombed in the Coalmont mine at Blakeburn, B. C., alive was virtually abandoned today.

Conviction was expressed by mine officials that if the men survived the blast they must have perished since from carbon monoxide poisoning.

Nevertheless, rescue crews were making a gallant effort to pierce through the blockaded tunnel to reach the point where the main crew was at work at the time of the disaster.

Thirty rescuers have been overcome by gas fumes while attempting to reach the men. The rescuers are hampered by the lack of modern gas-resisting equipment.

After a short shift in the tunnel, rescuers come reeling out like drunken men, only to plunge back in after the effects of the gas have worn off.

Doctors who have been mobilized here have been busy caring for hysterical women, whose husbands are entombed, and the rescuers who have been overcome by fumes.

Eighteen of the men entombed in the mine are married. One of them is the father of seven children. There are also three sets of brothers among those captivated behind the wall of debris and coal.

DIRIGIBLE RUSHES TOWARD HOMELAND SETTING FAST PACE

Positions Recorded By Radio; Larger Ship
Being Built

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Reaching forth an invisible radio finger occasionally to inform the motherland of its progress over the trackless ocean wastes, the British dirigible R-100 today was well past the mid-Atlantic mark rushing at a fast clip toward Cardington.

Advices received here from the airship's commander, Squadron Leader R. S. Booth, indicated the officers entertained every hope of breaking the America-to-Europe crossing record. The air ministry was informed the giant dirigible might be expected at Cardington by 1 a. m. Saturday (8 p. m. Friday Eastern Daylight Time.)

The R-100 kept in fairly constant touch with the air ministry here, but with the same reserve that characterized her trip from Europe to Canada, offered positions rarely.

At 8 o'clock (Eastern Daylight Time) last night she was 52.30 degrees north and 44.10 degrees west, averaging approximately six-five miles per hour she was flying at an altitude of 1,700 feet in an overcast sky.

Favored by tailwinds and plunging at times through patches of clouds and mist, the big airship set a fast pace for the larger part of its initial course. From Montreal to Anticosti Island it averaged eighty miles an hour, showing up but slightly on the northward trek to the ocean through the straits of Belle Isle.

Apparently, judging from the colorful reports sent here by correspondents aboard the airship, the thirteen passengers and forty-four members of the crew were thoroughly enjoying the trip. Keen interest in manipulation of the huge craft and the routine of living was reported, with passengers thoroughly surprised at the excellent hot food served in the style of the best hotels.

AKRON, O., Aug. 15.—America's claim to the largest airship under construction may be endangered in the near future, P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Corp., said today. Litchfield just recently returned from a trip to England.

While abroad, Litchfield viewed the two great English dirigibles, R-101 and R-100, and conferred with British officials of the air ministry.

Litchfield revealed that the English government is financing the design of two additional dirigibles, one of which is to be larger than the U. S. "Akron," 6,500-6,000 cubic foot airship now under construction.

Success of the R-101 and the R-100, the latter being now on its way home across the Atlantic, will have a great deal to do with actual construction of the proposed new aircraft in England, Litchfield said.

REBEL VETERAN DIES

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 15.—James B. Russell, who served in the civil war with the confederate army, died at his home here after a long illness. He was a member of Morgan's raiding party and served with the Ninth Kentucky Cavalry. He was 92 years old.

BUSINESS STATISTICS WORSE NOTED ECONOMIST DECLARES

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—While business sentiment has definitely improved during the past month, business statistics have been getting worse instead of better, Colonel Leonard P. Ayres, noted banker and economist, declared today in his monthly review of business conditions.

Industrial production dropped to new low levels in many lines in July, Ayres said, and railroad transportation slumped notably. Both wholesale and retail trade lagged badly also.

Despite these unfavorable conditions, Colonel Ayres predicted that figures for industrial production and for transportation will be better in August and that an upward trend will be in evidence in September. These changes, however, do not promise to be emphatic, he said.

The movement of security prices, Ayres said, has reflected the growing confidence that improvement impends and bonds have been strong and stock prices moved up almost continuously from late June to the closing week of July.

Operations in the iron and steel industry continued their long decline during the first half of July, Colonel Ayres said, but reached at least a temporary level of stability in the second half. At the close of the month steel mill operations were at about 57 per cent of capacity.

ADMITS BOMBING

Paul Montgomery, 26, licensed airplane pilot of Murphysboro, Ill., has confessed to authorities that he piloted the plane from which bombs were dropped on mines at Providence, Ky., Monday. He said he was forced to pilot two bombers on the trip.

BLAST WRECKS HOME OF NOTED SUGAR DEALER

Gangland Reprisal Is Blamed For Attack
On Porello

CLEVELAND, Aug. 15.—An explosion, which police believe to be another gangland attempt toward the annihilation of the notorious Porello family, reputed corn sugar dealers of Cleveland, today caused the complete destruction of the pretentious home of Raymond Porello, in southeast Cleveland.

The blast, according to police, was caused by either a bomb or a carefully planned gas explosion.

No one was in the house at the time of the blast, Porello having moved his family to his mother's home here, together with one of his brothers, for protection against gangland enemies who already have murdered two members of the family, Joe and Vincente James Porello, police were told.

The explosion shook the district for miles around. Windows of adjoining houses were broken and sleeping neighbors were thrown from their beds by the blast.

Joe Porello, reputed czar of the corn sugar trade here, was the first of his family to fall before the vengeance of gangland enemies. He and Sam Tilocco, his chief lieutenant, were murdered last July 5, as they sat in a restaurant in southeast Cleveland. Three weeks later, Vincente James Porello, brother of Joe and Raymond, was shot down in a grocery store at Cleveland's "bloody corner."

The murders have been attributed by police to the warfare for the control of the corn sugar business.

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

FAIRPORT HARBOR, O., Aug. 15.—A. F. March, coastguardman on beach patrol at the Fairport station here, was accidentally shot in the leg while on his beat early today. March said his revolver slipped from his holster and discharged when he stumbled over a log.

COMMISSION HEARS PROPOSAL TO LOWER COMMERCIAL RATES

Dayton Power And Light
Rejects Plan To Sell
Pole System

Overtures made by the city for the purchase of the distribution system of the Dayton Power and Light Co., within the corporation limits of Xenia met at least a temporary setback at the City Commission meeting Thursday night when officials of the power company announced they did not care to entertain such a proposition at this time.

The company countered, however, by offering to the city a further material reduction in its commercial lighting rates, promising that the demand method of charging for the service, held to be a source of considerable misunderstanding with many of its customers, has been eliminated entirely in the proposed new "block" rate, which is:

Initial charge of seventy-five cents per month per customer, plus the following charge per kilowatt hour:

Kw-hr. charge of 6 cents for first 50 kw-hrs. per month.

Kw-hr. charge of 5 cents for next 550 kw-hrs. per month.

Kw-hr. charge of 4 cents per kw-hrs. for excess.

The existing contract for commercial lighting, which expires December 31, provides for an initial charge of seventy-five cents per month, eight cents per kw-hr. for the first thirty hours use of maximum demand per month, six and three-fourths cents for next 100 kw-hr. per month and four and one-fourth cents for all current used in excess of 130 kw-hrs.

The proposed new rate schedule is predicated on the passing by city commission of a five-year rate ordinance, extension of the street lighting contract for four more years and the granting of a twenty-year electric franchise.

Pointing out that the city commission has exercised its option and cancelled the existing street lighting contract as of January 1, 1930, the company made it clear that it would expect commission to allow the extension of the street lighting contract for four more years, since the reduction in the price of street lighting, made the first of the year, was predicated on a five-year contract.

The economy also promised to provide immediately men capable of analyzing the effect of the change or rate, as applied to any particular customer, if so desired.

Appreciating that the city of Xenia is desirous of improving its streets in the business section, by the removal of certain poles, J. C. Matthieu, Dayton, vice-president of the company, told the commission a plan has been submitted whereby this may be accomplished and the streets properly illuminated by an adoption of so-called boulevard

CHICAGO MAN KILLS WIFE'S LOVER WHEN WOMAN REJECTS HIM

Claims Shooting Was In Self Defense; Held
For Murder

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 15.—Maurice Rose, 32, Chicago street car motorman, sat in his cell in the Hamilton County jail here today and calmly awaited arraignment for the slaying of Benjamin Lowe, 26, lover of Rose's former wife.

Rose claims that he shot and killed the man in self-defense but police maintain that the man was jealous because his divorced wife, Mrs. Gladys Rose, 28, refused to make a reconciliation. The alleged murder occurred in the local offices of the American Hair and Felt Co. yesterday afternoon.

The Chicago man told police he came here on a four days' leave to get either his former wife or the man who took her from him, they said. He said he had no intention of shooting but that he did so when Lowe displayed a revolver in his shirt.

Rose emptied the chamber of an automatic pistol into Lowe's body. He died almost instantly. The woman said she married Rose when she was fourteen years old in Paris, Ky., and that they have three children.

A charge of first-degree murder was placed against Rose immediately following his arrest. He was to be arraigned today.

AUTOIST KILLED

AKRON, O., Aug. 15.—Joseph Morgan, 26, of Akron, is dead, and George Miller, 25, of Pontiac, Mich., was reported near death in St. Thomas Hospital today from injuries received late last night when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into an urban car here.

VAN PELT LEADS TICKET FINAL OFFICIAL TABULATION SHOWS

Tabulation of the official vote cast in Greene County at Tuesday's primary election, completed Thursday by the board of elections, revealed the fact that Harold M. Van Pelt, successful candidate for the Republican nomination for county treasurer, and not Paul H. Creswell, Republican nominee for auditor, led the local Republican ticket among candidates for contested offices.

Discrepancies between the unofficial and official vote of numerous local candidates ranged as high as 165 votes, an unusually high number, but brought about no changes in the results.

Auditor Creswell, the unofficial leader of the county ticket, dropped to fourth place when the official count was completed.

Van Pelt picked up 102 votes by the official count, giving him a total of 3,365, three votes more than received by Attorney Marcus McCallister, Republican nominee for prosecuting attorney, who made the greatest gain by the official count. He had an increase of 163 votes over his unofficial total of 3,194.

John Baughn, nominated on the Republican ticket for sheriff, was given 3,342 votes, a gain of 155, the official tabulation disclosed. Creswell lost eight votes by the

UNIFORM RULES FOR SCHOOLS IN COUNTY ARE ARRANGED HERE

Looking forward to the coming school year and in the interest of county uniformity the school superintendents of Greene County, at a recent session, made a number of recommendations and suggestions with the hope all school districts of the county will approve them, according to Prof. H. C. Aultman, county school superintendent.

These recommendations were made:

- 1.—All schools to open September 1, (Labor Day), dismissing no pupils may return home by noon.
- 2.—General teacher's meeting, October 11, 1930.
- 3.—Central Ohio Teachers' Association, October 21 and November 1, 1930.
- 4.—Thanksgiving holidays, November 27 and 28, 1930.
- 5.—Christmas vacations, December 19 to 29 (not dismissing January 1, 1931.)
- 6.—General teacher's meeting, February 14, 1931.
- 7.—County tournament, February 28 and 29, 1931.
- 8.—Junior-Senior banquet, Friday, May 1, 1931.
- 9.—School closes May 15, 1931, making a total of 176 actual school days.

It was further agreed by both the superintendents and the county board of education that no textbook changes should be made except toward the county uniform list already in use.

A list of the 1930-31 district superintendents and executive heads of schools follows:

Department of agriculture to consider speeding federal-state road building programs and other methods of providing employment.

The governors who attended the conference generally said they believed the plan agreed upon would be helpful. President Hoover was insistent upon local and state agencies providing relief, while at least some of the governors declared a very liberal federal loan policy was necessary.

The question of federal loans was left to the federal coordination committee. While the farm board and intermediate credit banks have announced they had plenty of money to loan, they have insisted they cannot loan except upon good security.

Several governors, including Cooper of Ohio, urged the advance of federal aid funds for building of highways as the surest and quickest method of providing employment for farmers, so they may keep their farms and pay their taxes.

President Hoover, in his formal statement on the results of the conference, said:

"We have canvassed the information secured by state and national surveys as to drought conditions. While the extent of the damage cannot yet be determined, it is certain that there are at least 250 counties most acutely affected where some degree of relief must be provided."

"It was the view of the conference that the burden of effective organization to meet the situation over the winter in the acutely affected counties rests primarily upon the counties and the states themselves, supplemented by such co-operation and assistance as may be found necessary on the part of the federal government."

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon was expected to take a place in the relief organization as ex-officio chairman of the federal farm loan bureau. He was to return to Washington today, and Paul Bestor, farm loan commissioner, announced the situation would be canvassed with him.

President Hoover was to confer this afternoon with Sam H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation; C. C. Talbot, chairman of the board of the Farmers Union, and Louis J. Taber, master of the National Grange.

lighting at a nominal cost. Asserting it is eminently desirable to the Dayton Power and Light Co. that its position on the light question be given a proper and fair consideration. Mr. Mattheu quoted numerous statistics designed to show the company is a substantial factor in Xenia's industrial affairs.

"During the year 1929," he said, "the number of employees required in the operation of the company's Xenia district averaged sixty with seventy-nine as the maximum number. Practically all of these resided in Xenia and were paid the sum of $89,669.50, a large portion of which was in turn expended in Xenia."

"Total purchases of supplies and materials from merchants and dealers in Xenia for the year 1929 amounted to $14,400.17. "For the year 1928 (paid in 1929) the company paid into the treasury of Greene County $53,979.92 as taxes upon its property located in this county, and of this amount $9,990.66 was the city of Xenia's portion."

"As the company serves approximately 3,000 customers in Xenia, it is apparent from the above figures that the average tax per customer served amounted to $3.33 for the year."

"The records of the company disclose seventy-two holders of its preferred stock living in Xenia, this stock having a total par value of $124,000. This, it would appear, is deserving of careful consideration in determining the future of your city."

"To summarize these figures briefly, it must be admitted that the company is a component part of, and an important factor in the industrial, commercial and social life of the city of Xenia."

The officials of the company, Mr. Mattheu argued, for two years have been considering its rate structure in its district operations and during the latter part of 1928, made a substantial reduction in its electric rates.

"The present property of the company," he continued, "represents the careful and conscientious effort of more than a quarter of a century. Its growth has been steady and sound. Step by step it has built up its equipment and extended its facilities throughout a widespread territory. Officials and personnel of the company have at all time endeavored to co-operate to the best interests of the customers, community and company. Taking these conditions into account, to entertain the proposition of a sale of the electric distribution plant in Xenia would, in the company's judgment, be out of order at this time. Mr. Mattheu said, adding he believed this step should not be resorted to until a sufficient time has been devoted to a business-like survey and discussion of the whole matter of Xenia's electric supply.

Frederick Anderson and L. D. Wilson, also present at the meeting, again reminded the commission they are behind a project for a locally-owned light plant for Xenia, providing the city will take over the distribution lines of the D. P. and L. Co. and open the light contracts to competitive bidding.

He disclosed that he and Mr. Wilson have the financial backing of the Fairbanks-Morse Co., New York City, which finances public utilities. K. W. Jones, Cleveland representative of this firm, advised the commission his company stood ready to finance the project for the two Xenians.

The argument was put forward that city commission, if it desires, has the power to appraise and purchase the distribution lines of the Dayton company under condemnation proceedings. The city, Mr. Anderson said, could retain ownership of the lines and lease them to the successful bidder. He maintained the city should own the lines in any event for the purpose of placing Xenia in a position of absolute independence relative to light and power.

The commission tabled the proposition of the Dayton company for future consideration and also took the recommendations of Messrs. Anderson and Wilson under advisement.

Cambridge, a former pastor of the church. Preceding the ceremony a half hour's program of nuptial music was played on the organ by Miss Marie Eckerle. The numbers included: "Prelude to Lohengrin," Wagner; "Nuptial Song," Dubois; "Meditations," Sturges; "Adoration," Borowski; "Romance," Debussy; and "Venetian Love Song," Nevin. Mrs. Raymond Tobias, sister of the groom, sang three solos, "At Dawning," "I Love You Truly" and "Oh Promise Me." The "Wedding March" from Lohengrin was played at the approach of the wedding party and Miss Street played the Mendelssohn Wedding March for the recessional.

The church was attractively decorated with a profusion of greenery, consisting of palms and ferns and large baskets of Queen Anne's lace. The altar, before which the vows were taken, was banked with ferns and tall candelabra were placed on either side. The center aisle of the church, down which the bride procession proceeded, was marked with small clusters of ferns tied with white ribbon. At the strains of the wedding march the bride procession entered the church led by the ushers, the Messrs. Roger Nash, and Robert St. John, Dayton; Willard Thuma, Jamestown and Howell Huston, this city. Following the ushers were the bride's maids, the Misses Dorothy Lackey and Katherine Conklin, this city. Kathryn Hughes, Cedarville and Thelma Comer, Dayton. Their frocks of white were fashioned along similar lines with tight fitting bodices and long flared skirts. The gowns were cut low in the neck and were sleeveless. Miss Lackey's gown was yellow; Miss Conklin wore pink; Miss Hughes, orchid and Miss Comer, blue. Each wore foot-wear in a shade harmonizing with her gown and each carried an arm bouquet of asters and gladioli of various colors.

Following the bride's maids walked Miss Esther Nash, sister of the bride and maid of honor. Miss Nash's frock was of pale green satin, moiré, fashioned the same as the bride's maids and she wore green satin slippers. Directly following Miss Nash walked the flower girl, little Agnes Nash, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Nash. She wore a frock of white silk and carried a basket of rose petals which she scattered in the path of the bride. With her walked the ring bearer, little Richard Tobias, nephew of the groom, and he carried the ring in a box.

The bride, who is an attractive blonde, entered next on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown was of eggshell satin, fashioned on the long flared lines with a tight fitting bodice. Her veil of tulle edged with lace, was caught in coronet fashion with a band of orange blossoms. She carried a bridal bouquet of yellow roses and baby's breath. The groom and his best man, Mr. William Spahr, this city, joined the bride at the altar.

Immediately following the ceremony a reception to which fifty guests were invited, was held at the home of the bride's parents on the Stevenson Road. A two course buffet supper was served the guests and a large white bride's cake held a place of prominence on the table in the dining room. Large bouquets of gladioli and snapdragons were used about the rooms of the Nash home.

Late Thursday evening Mr. and Mrs. Eckerle left for a ten days' trip but did not divulge their destination. Mrs. Eckerle's going-away outfit consisted of a light green wool ensemble. Upon their return the young couple will reside in Dayton.

Mrs. Eckerle, who is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nash, is a graduate of Central High School in 1925 and also a graduate of Cedarville College Normal Training School. For the past three years she has been teaching in the Montgomery County schools and will continue to teach next year at the Ebenezer Centralized School near Dayton.

Mr. Eckerle is also a graduate of Central High School with the class of 1923 and is a member of the Downtown Country Club. He is associated with his father in the printing business in Xenia.

DON'T SUFFER FROM CONSTIPATION

Prevent It This Pleasant, Healthful Way

Beware of the frequent headaches, the listless feeling, bad breath and salivary complexion.

If allowed to continue, constipation may get its grip on you and serious sickness can result.

The poisonous wastes in your system must be removed. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to do this—safely, completely. Just eat two table-spoonfuls daily—recurring cases, with every meal.

Doctors recommend Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Because it is ALL-BRAN it brings complete results. Far better than habit-forming drugs or pills that are often dangerous. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN not only prevents and relieves constipation pleasantly—it also supplies your blood with the iron it needs to keep a healthy color and a strong body. Ready to eat with milk or cream. Delicious with fruits or honey added. Recipes are on the package for muffins and breads. Sold by all grocers. Served by hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Improved in Texture and Taste

ONE of the most enjoyable affairs of the present season was the August dinner-dance for members of the Xenia Country Club and their guests at the club Thursday evening. Success of the affair was due to the efforts of Mrs. James D. Adair and her committee.

One hundred and thirty-five guests were present for the dinner which was served out-of-doors at tables attractively arranged around the dancing pavilion. Dancing was enjoyed during the progress of the dinner with music furnished by Harry Gehring's Orchestra from Dayton. The lawn of the clubhouse were gaily decorated with a number of Japanese lanterns. Following the dinner dancing was enjoyed during the remainder of the evening and several novelty dances were featured.

A number of parties were entertained by club members at the dinner among them being a party of twenty-six young people entertained by Miss Betty Flynn. Mrs. Mary Little Dice was hostess to a party of fourteen guests and Mr. and Mrs. J. A. DeHaven entertained ten guests. Other smaller parties were entertained by Dr. and Mrs. W. T. Ungard, Dr. and Mrs. H. C. Messenger and Mrs. Robert Arthur Kelly.

Assisting Mrs. Adair in making the evening an enjoyable affair were: Mrs. James Wilson III, Mrs. J. A. DeHaven, Mrs. James A. Chew, Mrs. W. T. Ungard, Mrs. Ward Huston and Mr. Henry Flynn.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Savage (Ruth Barnes) and two children, of Teaneck, N. J., will arrive here Saturday to spend a week with Mrs. Savage's parents, Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Barnes, High St. En route home Mr. and Mrs. Savage will stop in Cleveland and at Niagara Falls to visit sisters of Mrs. Savage.

Mr. and Mrs. James D. Adair and two sons, Clinton and Tommy, N. King St., are leaving Saturday to spend several days with Mr. and Mrs. Lehr Fess at their summer cottage at LaSalle, Ill.

Mr. and Mrs. James Savage, Chestnut St., left Friday for Milwaukee to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Paul Shoemaker. Mr. Shoemaker is a former Xenian.

Mr. J. Perry Howell, who has been seriously ill at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Ralph Perkins, 325 Bellbrook Ave., is now improving and is able to sit up.

Mrs. Floyd Smith, Greenville, who underwent an operation at Espey Hospital, has been removed to the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Ross, Bowersville.

Mrs. Anna Caudill, W. Second St., who dislocated her hip in a fall at her home several weeks ago was reported to be slightly improved Friday.

Mrs. Harriett Trone Brown, Chicago, will arrive here Saturday morning to visit her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Croy, W. Second St. Mrs. Brown and Mr. and Mrs. Croy will spend the week end in Circleville and will attend the Trone family reunion.

Max Perkins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Perkins, Bellbrook Ave., underwent an operation Thursday morning at the office of a local physician for the removal of his tonsils.

When drying dresses or slips, take about five or six yards of white thread, wrap it around clothespin or spool, and put in dye pot to provide right shade to mend the dyed garment.

RETAIN SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS FOR YEAR; EMPLOY TEACHERS

Retention of the three present school bus drivers in Xenia Twp. on the basis of one-year contracts instead of three-year contracts was decided upon by the Xenia Twp. board of education by a vote of 3 to 2 when this mooted question was given another airing by the board Thursday night.

The three drivers, John Ray, J. E. Lyle and D. O. Spahr qualified by furnishing bond at the meeting. Ray posted $1,000 bond and Lyle and Spahr $500 bond each.

Board members discussed the question of whether to hire the present drivers for one year more or to open the positions to competitive bidding, the upshot of the controversy being that a majority of the members voted to re-affirm the minutes of the June meeting at which they had voted to re-employ the present drivers for one year.

The board announced the employment of Miss Louise Waddle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Waddle, E. Market St., this city, as teacher at the Hilltop school, succeeding Lloyd Cavender, who resigned recently to accept a teaching position at West Carrollton. A petition asking that the East Point school be re-opened this fall was again granted and T. A. White was again employed as teacher.

BRAND TRIUMPHED BY 3,534 VOTES

Charles Brand, Urbana, who was re-nominated on the Republican ticket for congressman from the Seventh District, carried six of the nine counties comprising the district at Tuesday's primary election and had an official plurality of 3,534 votes over his opponent, Judge Harry G. Gram, Springfield.

Congressman Brand had a plurality of 1,130 votes in his home county, Champaign; a plurality of 1,534 in Logan County, 1,631 in Madison County, 1,561 in Warren County, 634 in Union and 501 in Fayette County.

Judge Gram carried his home county, Clark, by 2,070 votes and defeated his opponent in Clinton County by 663 and in Greene County by 124 votes.

They decided the issue in the presence of the election board. Louis W. Hazen, clerk of the board of elections, tossed the coin and Fisher won on "heads."

MRS. ELIZABETH ANKENY, 98, DIES

Mrs. Elizabeth Ankeny, 98, a life-long resident of Beaver Creek Twp., died at her home on the Trebels-Fairfield Road, Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. She had been in failing health for several weeks due to infirmities of age.

Mrs. Ankeny was the daughter of the late John and Elizabeth Varner. Her husband, David Ankeny, preceded her in death a number of years and a daughter and a son also preceded her in death. Two grandsons, Frank Beck, near Trebels and Charles Beck, Dayton, survive as well as eight great-grandchildren. Roland Varner, Beaver Creek Twp., is a nephew and Miss Mary Varner, La-Grange, Ind., is a niece.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home and burial will be made in Woodland Cemetery, this city.

CANDIDATES MUST REVEAL EXPENSES

All local candidates at Tuesday's primary election are required by law to file expense accounts with the board of elections within ten days after the election, Earl Short, clerk of the board, warned Friday. Candidates whose names were written in on the ballot by voters are not exempt from filing statements of their campaign receipts and disbursements. Central committee candidates must also file expense statements.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

COUNT THE COST—And a certain scribe came, and said unto him, Master I will follow thee whithersoever thou goest. And Jesus said unto him, The foxes have holes, and the birds of the air have nests; but the Son of man hath not where to lay his head.—Matthew 8:19, 20.

WOMAN'S INTEREST

After the king's prize was taken from a field of 99 men, crack shots from all parts of the British empire, by Miss Marjorie Foster at Bisley recently, a correspondent complained to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle that as Miss Foster is a non-combatant in war, and since rifle practice at Bisley is to train for service in war, "it would seem that Miss Foster's skill has little practical value." The correspondent further likens her performance to a man's winning a prize in a baby dressing contest, an efficiency which "in a purely women's field of activity would mean nothing."

Aside from the fallacy in reasoning that a man should know nothing of how to dress a baby, it so happens that Miss Foster has been mentioned as having driven a motor during the World War. Thus coming under a classification of combatants, she had also the right to any skill necessary in the defense of herself or her car.

A woman's interest in the correct use of firearms does not of itself reflect a bloodthirsty nature, nor an inclination to take a potshot at an erring husband. Pioneer women had to know how to handle a gun in defense against the Indians and to bring down wild game for food. The name of a champion markswoman of the "wild west," Annie Oakley, has been immortalized by its application to the punched ticket obtained on a theatre pass. Today there are many women who hunt ducks and small game. Rifle practice for girls is among the sports provided at most of the larger universities. Girl clerks in banks are taught to shoot revolvers for protection in the event of a bank robbery. Russia and China have even enlisted regiments of women soldiers.

On the whole, a more intelligent attitude on the part of both men and women toward pistols and rifles serve to increase the general respect for these weapons of potential destruction and reduce the casualties among persons who "didn't know it was loaded." Target practice demands a quick eye and steady nerves, both of which are of practical value in driving an automobile, or in conducting oneself in life generally.

DANGER OF TYPHOID

Weather conditions which have resulted in a marked lowering of water levels throughout the country have made increased vigilance against typhoid fever especially necessary on the part of those whose vacations take them away from centers where there is no question of the purity of the water supply. Ten cases of typhoid fever have been reported within the past two weeks to the Detroit department of health, and in nine of these the disease developed soon after the individual's return from a vacation. In typhoid fever it is known that the bacillus may be present in the system two weeks before the appearance of the first symptoms.

To avoid contracting typhoid, now regarded as a disease of rural districts rather than of cities, drinking water should be boiled unless its source is positively known to be pure. The teeth should not be brushed with water unfit for drinking. Swimmers should not enter water which might harbor typhoid germs. Milk should be boiled if it has not been pasteurized. Oysters from polluted sea water are carriers of the disease, which may also be transmitted through raw or uncooked foods as well as cooked food not protected from flies and excessive handling.

A 17-year-old girl in Switzerland, whose face was permanently scarred in an automobile accident, was awarded $65,000 damages for the loss of her esthetic value. That's a new one to us, who are now busily engaged in estimating our esthetic value, if any.

Consider the humble lemon at this season: How its quality and usefulness triumph over unfavorable publicity and slurs against its good name.

The farmers and all the rest of us would be only too glad for the chance to have as a theme song: "Singin' in the Rain."

The WAY of the WORLD

By GROVE PATTERSON

WITH YOUR TEN MILLION

What would you do if you had $10,000,000 to spare on your hands? It is said E. S. Harkness, who has given huge fortunes to educational institutions, now proposes to give $10,000,000 to do educational and social work in England. Earning that much money would be a great task. Few could do it. And few could spend that much with intelligence. Look about you and see poverty, unrest, unhappiness. Suppose you had millions to give away, would you know how to relieve that poverty, quiet the unrest, bring happiness? Can human nature be repaired with money?

REAL WELFARE

Scientists, gathering in Paris, are told the conference is called for the purpose of reuniting scientific workers of all nations, the contacts of whom have been interrupted and retarded by the World War—and to reawaken a sense of profound interest in the welfare of humanity.

This is hopeful. Thoughtful men are learning to think and talk in terms of human rather than national welfare. Contacts in science and social work, broken down by the war, are made again. The government is important; the people are more important.

ABOUT LIFE

University of Alabama uses newspapers as text books to bring students face to face with life and reality. If all of us read newspapers more and read them carefully, and read cheap magazines and cheap books less, we would learn more about life. One cannot escape life and reality, even by way of romance as set forth in books and magazines. We must learn to confront reality. We must learn to adjust ourselves to life as it is. It is rather pathetic to find ourselves and others seeking to live, even for a little while, in an unreal world.

PLANNING CIVILIZATION

Who knows how to plan civilization? There is a job for you. Bruce Bliven, editor of the New Republic says:

"We must put civilization on a plan basis if there is to be any hope for its continuance. There is a constant race between education and catastrophe. Most of the old props that sustained our faith in the happy future of mankind have been removed. Religion, for instance, is playing an ever-diminishing part as an influencing factor in American life. The home has been replaced by outside amusements as a focal center of family interest. The example of Soviet Russia has given us the ever-present menace of a world-wide proletarian revolution.

"We have come to realize that evolution is not necessarily beneficent and that another struggle like the World War would evolve a new barbarism which would lead to a new era of 'Dark Ages.' If man is to continue to live on this planet, he must control the machine of civilization which he has created."

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions.

WHAT ARE "shooting stars"?
Shooting stars are small meteorites that catch fire as they enter the earth's atmosphere and burn up when far above the earth.

Furniture Polish

Please give the formula for a simple furniture polish that can be made at home.

The bureau of standards suggests the following as being easy to make and of good quality: one pint raw linseed oil, two pints of turpentine, one to two ounces of beeswax. Dissolve the beeswax in the linseed oil by heating slightly, remove from the source of heat, add the turpentine and mix. Be sure to shake well before applying.

Passports

To whom should application be made for a passport and what is the fee?

Application should be made to the division of passports, state department, Washington, D. C. The fees are $9 for the passport and $1 for executing the application for it, making a total cost of $10.

Uncle Sam's Wards

Is any attempt made to place the reservations for Indians in the natural habitats of the Indians who are to use them?

Such an attempt is made, and some of the reservations are on lands on which the Indians always have lived. Due to various reasons, it is impossible to do this with all the reservations.

America's First Elevator

What hotel was the first to install an elevator?

The Fifth Avenue hotel, in New York, was the first to install an elevator, in 1859. It was due in part to this elevator that the Prince of Wales chose the Fifth Avenue hotel when he was entertained in New York in 1860.

Will Rogers' Schooling

Where was Will Rogers educated?

Will Rogers received his education at the Willie Hassell school, Neosho (Mo.). He also attended the Kemper Military academy for a short time.

Liberty Head Nickels

Where were any Liberty head nickels coined in 1913?

The "buffalo" type nickel was adopted after the commencement of the calendar year 1913 and pending the adoption of this new design, nickels of the old design were made at the mints. However, there is no record of the number of them, as there was no segregation by designs in reporting the total coinage of this denomination for the year.

(NOTE: The following pamphlets may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin and a large stamped, self-addressed envelope for each to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.: "Who's Who in Hollywood," "Swimming," "Seeing Washington," Charles P. Stewart's treatise on "Our Government," and "The World War.")

HAVE A HEART!

NEW YORK CITY, N. Y.—It's astonishing the number of New Yorkers who sally forth on Summer vacations or week-end outings leaving household pets behind them to suffer slow death from thirst or starvation. Every week at this time of the year, scouts for the S. P. C. A. rescue on an average of 7,000 cats and 2,500 dogs; and there's no way of estimating the number abandoned and not encountered, that die daily of neglect.

Many a bedraggled cat or dog, its mouth hopelessly swollen by days without water, is rescued from fire escapes on Park and Fifth Avenues. Pitiful strays with pedigrees are picked up limp with exhaustion at closed garbage cans in fashionable districts. The deserted pets of the Upper Levels usually are in a more pitiful condition than those of the tenement alleys. Pampering has destroyed their initiative.

THE NEW COOK!

LIBERAL STAMP USUALLY APPLIED TO THOSE CANDIDATES APPROVED BY FOUR RAILROAD BROTHERHOODS

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON.—The railroad brotherhoods' opinion of a political candidate is about as reliable a test as any.

As between Republicans and Democrats, these brotherhoods are a non-partisan (or bi-partisan) crowd. By an overwhelming majority they also are progressive, as the term is used these times to designate what virtually is an independent party most of whose members, however, profess either Republican or Democratic affiliations. Thus it sometimes is hard to tell regular Republicans and Democrats from progressives, but the railroad folk have all the politically important ones classified, and whenever a new one becomes prominent, they investigate him thoroughly.

With local organizations scattered throughout the whole country, their facilities for obtaining information are excellent, and the conclusions they arrive at are exceedingly likely to be correct in every particular.

The railroaders' own idea is that, in rendering a progressive verdict upon a candidate's qualifications, they have declared in his favor; whereas, if they list him among the stand patters, they consider that they have decided against him.

Of course, this is because the brethren, being themselves so generally progressive, feel that way about

Nevertheless, there is no reason why a voter outside the brotherhoods' ranks, while accepting the railroad men's findings as accurate, should not interpret them to precisely the opposite effect, for his personal guidance on election day.

That is to say, he is at perfect liberty to argue: "Such-and-such a candidate is mentioned by the railroad brotherhoods as a rank reactionary; he gets my ballot, therefore, I'm opposed to such-and-such another candidate; the railroad men recommend him as a genuine progressive."

As a matter of fact, I believe most disinterested people will agree that the brotherhoods' selections, in the main, are very enlightened.

However, not all folk are disinterested.

At any rate, the chief executives of more than a score of the standard railroad labor organizations met in Cleveland recently and decided on a list of twenty senatorial endorsements; thus:

Edward P. Costigan (Dem.), Colorado; Senator William J. Harris (Dem.), Georgia; Senator William E. Borah (Rep.), Idaho; Senator Arthur Capper (Rep.), Kansas; Senator John M. Robinson (Rep.), Kentucky; Governor Huey P. Long (Dem.), Louisiana; Senator James Couzens (Rep.), Michigan; Senator Thomas D. Schall (Rep.), Minnesota; Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), Montana; Senator George W. Norris (Rep.), Nebraska; Senator Sam G. Bratton (Dem.), New Mexico; ex-Representative John McNamara (Dem.), Ohio; Senator Charles L. McNary (Rep.), Oregon; Secretary of Labor James J. Davis (Rep.), Pennsylvania; ex-Senator Peter G. Gerry (Dem.), Rhode Island; ex-Representative James P. Byrnes (Dem.), South Carolina; Senator William M. McMaster (Rep.), South Dakota; Representative Cordell Hull (Dem.), Tennessee; Senator Morris Sheppard (Dem.), Texas; ex-Senator M. M. Neeley (Dem.), West Virginia.

Even the railroad brotherhoods are not wholly disinterested; it would take an awful stretch of the imagination to conceive of Secretary of Labor Davis as a progressive. A pro-labor man and a trades unionist; yes—but progressive?—murder!

The other nineteen, however, are a strong showing.

No one will dispute Coltigan's, Schall's, Walsh's, Norris' or McMaster's progressive-ism—or Borah's and Couzens', in streaks.

As for the rest—at least (in varying degrees) good liberals.

And whoever there may be who wishes to make absolutely certain of being safely on the conservative side, can take the same roster, and, by "coppering" every name on it, know precisely what candidates not to vote for—always bearing in mind that Secretary of Labor Davis seems to have been the exception the brotherhoods chose to prove their rule by.

BUSY PASSES JUDGMENT

Busy was amused, there wasn't a doubt of it. And if she had been addressed by one of her own humble kind she would have laughed out loud. However, it was a queen who commanded her answer. So Worker Ant was very respectful.

"Pardon my smiling, your majesty," said she. "But really, if you knew as much as I do, you would find all this right on my relatives' part very funny. That is, I mean if you knew as much about the young Two-Legs here as I do. Of course, on all other subjects you are far wiser than I am or can ever hope to be." Pleased at such flattery, the fat queen bowed.

"Our guest is as honest as the day is long, and has offered to help us because he wishes to be of use and not just an idler. Let him carry your burdens. If you ask me, I believe our guest is strong enough to manage two or three eggs at a time. Think what this would mean! If he carried two eggs this would relieve two ants to go to work in the new home, setting it to rights. Your Majesty, an Ant can carry but one egg at a time in her jaws. But a Two-Legs walks upright on his feet and has two arms that swing and do nothing at all unless he gives them something to carry. If young Two-Legs wishes to burden himself with our treasures, let him! It will please him and be so much the better for us."

"Trust me, and you'll never be sorry!" cried Peter, anxious to prove his worth.

"All right, we will!" the fat queen nodded. "Now that everything's settled, let everybody be up and at their work. It's up to you, Busy, to tell your friend what he's to do!"

Off the fat queen waddled.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Meat Loaf
Baked or Scalloped Potatoes
Green Corn
Sliced Cucumbers and Tomatoes
Ice Cream
Tea

Meat loaf is one of the best summer meat dishes. It must be seasoned well to give it the decided zip to tempt jaded appetites, and it may be served hot or cold, with baked, scalloped or creamed potatoes or potato salad or chips. Rice may be served with it in the place of potatoes, if you wish. Several different recipes are published.

Today's Recipes

Beef Loaf—Two pounds ground beef, grated rind and juice one-half lemon, one tablespoon chopped parsley, two eggs, one-half teaspoon finely chopped onion (more may be used), one teaspoon salt, one-eighth teaspoon pepper, one-half cup bread crumbs, one egg, one-half cup milk (about). Put beef into a large mixing bowl, add lemon rind and juice, parsley, beaten egg, onion juice, seasoning and bread crumbs. Mix all together. Add milk, stirring it in well. Shape into a loaf, place in a greased pan, place several slices of bacon across the top. Bake in a hot oven, 400 degrees Fahrenheit, for 45 minutes, reducing the heat slightly during the last period of cooking.

Ham Loaf—Two cups chopped cooked ham, one cup bread crumbs, two tablespoons chopped green pepper, two eggs, one-fourth teaspoon dry mustard, one-fourth teaspoon black pepper, one-half cup milk, one tablespoon fat. Combine ingredients in order named, leaving the fat for dotting over the top of the loaf. Shape into a loaf, place in greased pan, dot with fat over top or place slices of bacon across the top and bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees Fahrenheit, 30 to 40 minutes, or until well browned.

Dutch Beef Loaf—One and one-half pounds beef, one-fourth pound fresh pork, one-half cup bread crumbs, one-fourth cup milk, one-half cup canned tomatoes, one egg, one teaspoon minced parsley, one tablespoon dried onion, one teaspoon salt, celery salt, red pepper. Combine meats. Add bread crumbs which have been soaked in milk. Combine with remaining ingredients, season well, shape into a loaf, loaf in bread crumbs, place in a greased pan and bake, basting with bacon drippings. Serve with tomato sauce.

Suggestions

Picnic Sandwiches
It is all right to cut off the crusts and make tiny, dainty sandwiches for afternoon tea parties, but for the out-of-doors picnic be generous with the bread and the filling. Leave on the crusts of the bread, too. Fresh air whets the appetites.

Raw Foods Necessary In The Diet

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

There was a dream once that some form of concentrated food could be found. This would do away with the necessity of having a great deal of bulk to carry home from the grocery store, and find storage room for in the house. Instead, you would have three small cubes placed out on the mantelpiece in the morning wrapped in tin foil, and they would represent your daily allowance of food. You would unwrap one from its tin foil in the morning and slowly munch it (while walking to the car), one at noon and one when you got home in the evening. They would have sort of magical properties and would relieve fatigue and restore vigor immediately.

The accomplishment of this dream would have been of extraordinary value to armies in wartime. Instead of great lumbering commissary caravans and kitchen supplies of cumbersome dimensions, every soldier would carry in his knapsack enough food to last him for a month or two.

It was a beautiful dream, but it didn't work out. Experiments were tried on soldiers, keeping them on concentrated preserved food for weeks, but they all got sick and weak. They had sore tongues and eruptions on the skin and other manifestations of illness.

Finally in 1906 Professor Gowland Hopkins showed that fresh foods contain a substance or substances necessary to healthy living. These substances were later called vitamins. They disappear out of preserved food and often when food is cooked. Hopkins found them particularly in fresh milk. His experiments were performed on white rats. He had one group of white rats he fed on preserved food, a sufficient amount for energy and tissue replacement. There was another group which got the same food as the first, but also an ounce of fresh milk a day. The first lot got sick and failed to grow. The second group thrived. Therefore Hopkins concluded animals cannot live on preserved or concentrated food alone.

It has been abundantly proved since that he was right. Therefore in every diet there should be some raw food. Besides milk the fruits, oranges, lemons and limes—have some of these substances. Yeast has many. Cod liver oil, cream and butter has an important one especially to growing babies. Eggs have them.

Milk, because it is the natural food of the infant, is the only food that contains all of them. Much has been written about these vitamins lately, and too much has undoubtedly been claimed for them. Because of the catching name—vitamins—which has been attached to them by science they have lent themselves to wise exploitation. The mere eating of vitamins will not give you more "vitality." Furthermore, special preparations of them are no more efficacious than when you get them in fresh fruit, green vegetables and raw milk.

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Dr. Clending cannot diagnose or give personal answers to letters from readers. When questions are of general interest, however, they will be taken up, in order, in the daily column. A Word Of Commendation

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"DEAR MADAM: To an 'unkissable girl' I would like to present a word of commendation. I know personally an unkissable girl who is a leader in the younger social set of this town, attends a high school of 1,800 pupils, where, in her junior year she was vice president of her class, and in her senior year a member of the athletic board and president of the Girl Reserves.

"This young lady is an excellent dancer, and is considered one of the best girl skaters in the city. It is these qualities, rather than indulgence in petting, which have made her popular.

"So there ARE unkissable girls, and they ARE popular. Thank you, Clarence."

As to the boy friend if he doesn't seem to be attracted to you or ask for your company, all you can do is to wait for an opportunity and then be so sweet and nice he just can't resist you. Easy, isn't it?

SKEET: I think you can look forward quite confidently to the home of your own with the nice boy and babies. Skeets. And the boy and babies will be lucky.

EVE: Dear, you should have told your parents as soon as the thing happened. If they were in bed when you got home, you should have waked them up and told them. It may not be as bad as you think, but tell your mother as soon as you can,

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The National League is suffering from an acute but pleasant attack of red hot turnstiles this summer.

It must be admitted the league is in the throes of a race that is keeping the fan temperature up to the boiling point. And the first act of pennant-scenting fans is to rush to the ball yards and lay it on the line for a rumble seat view of the proceedings.

No less than five clubs have been popping into and out of first place all season and at least four are still in the running.

After opening the season with a typical McGraw drive New York couldn't stand the hot pace and made way for the Chicago Cubs, who were unable to shake off the Pittsburgh Pirates, who fell victim to the climbing Brooklyn Dodgers, who were shunted aside by the St. Louis Cards.

In the wild scramble the Giants moved from first place to fifth quicker than you can say Uncle Wilbert Robinson, and the Cards staggered up from nowhere in particular to the top of the heap.

These were only side shows, however, in the circus, the high spot being the surprising showing of the overlooked Brooklyn Robins, aptly called the House of Dismals.

All those, including yours truly, who picked the Cubs to win the pennant again this season also forecast some mild difficulties besetting the path of the Bruins through the efforts of the Pirates, Cardinals and Giants. Few gave Brooklyn a tumble, but there the Dodgers are, virtually tied for first place.

Brooklyn has arrived even if the Flatbush outfit did blow a three-game lead and permit Chicago to take the lead for the moment. The club has amply proved itself to be a tough baby in a tough battle.

The dumbest club in baseball, Brooklyn is a slugging outfit, its fielding has improved and its pitching is as good and possibly a lot better than any other team is getting.

Due, of course, to the peach of a topsy-turvy race, attendance throughout the league has been pretty good. In Brooklyn there is no worry about the crowds. Loyal Flatbush folk are straining old Ebbets Field to capacity. The Dodgers have a good chance to win this one and Brooklyn fandom has responded. There is only one thing that may ruin the chances of the Dodgers. Manager Robinson may yet run into one of those traditional streaks of Robinsonian bad luck.

Leo Killen has submitted to this department his selections for first and second all-star teams picked from players in the National Softball League. If you don't agree with all or any of the choices this department would be pleased to print other mythical teams. You select 'em, we'll print 'em. Here is how Leo's teams line up:

CRITERIONS LOSE OVERTIME CONTEST

In a game that went twelve innings before a decision was reached, the Criterion softball team, rounded out by a few Lang Chevrolet and Geyer players, dropped a heated diamond argument to Coach Graves' Wilberforce nine, 7 to 6 in the Wilberforce diamond Thursday eve.

The contest was supposed to be limited to seven innings but at the conclusion of this round the score was even at 4 to 4. Both teams scored a run in the eighth and also in the eleventh. Wilberforce chased across a run in the twelfth to win out.

Horman Wells did mound duty for the Xenia nine.

SOFTBALL TEAM TO CONSIDER SERIES

Managers of the softball teams and the Softball Commission will hold a joint meeting at Cox Athletic Field after the Lang Chevrolet Co-Graham Paints game Friday night to discuss plans for a post-season series, either between two all-star teams or between the Lang Chevrolets, if they win the National title, and a picked all-star nine.

A small admission would be charged to his series, according to present plans, in order to wipe out the deficit which will exist at the end of the current season and create a fund to help finance the sport next year.

SHOEMAKERS TAKE EARLY LEAD AND OVERWHELM KI-RO TEAM

A ten-run spurge by Krippendorf in the first inning settled the American League game between the league leaders and Kiwanis-Rotary right then and there Thursday night at Cox Field.

With this advantage for a starter, the shoe factory nine progressed to a 22 to 14 victory and clinched the league title.

With a lead of two full games over Ki-Ro, the leaders have only one more game to play.

Thirteen batters faced Russ Kimber, Ki-Ro hurler, in the weird first round. Five of them hit singles, two batters walked and three others reached first base on errors.

IDLE HOUR DEFEATS DAYTON BREAD TEAM IN SOFTBALL TILT

Although outlit, twelve to ten, the Idle Hour Club's softball team benefited by six opposition errors and scored a 13 to 10 victory over the Certified Bread nine of Dayton on the club's Mulberry St. diamond Wednesday night. The game was abbreviated to six and a half innings.

Herman Frank, former Xenia Reserve baseball player who has been playing in the Sally League this season, pitched for the visitors with Bradshaw performing on the mound for the Idle Hour ladies. Home runs by Fields and Thomas for the winners and by M. Daley and T. Daley for Dayton enlivened the pastime.

The Idle Hour will play the Gallops of Wilmington here Friday night and will meet the Highland A. C. of Dayton in a double-header Sunday, starting at 4 p. m. Line-ups:

YELLOW CABS FORCE IDLE HOUR TO LIMIT IN 11 TO 10 SLUGFEST

Rallying to score three runs in the last half of the seventh and final inning, the Idle Hour Club softball team came from behind in an exciting finish to beat the Dayton Yellow Cabs, 11 to 10 in a slugfest Thursday night on the Mulberry St. diamond.

"Cannonball" Harris started on the mound for the Idle Hour nine in place of Bradshaw but was shelved from the hill and Scurry replaced him.

When the first half of the seventh rolled around, the Xenia boys were leading, 8 to 7, but the Yellow Cabs marked up three runs in their bag of the seventh to take a two-run lead. Then the home team won out when Cunnigan singled, Cockrane hit his second homer, Thomas doubled and Porter singled for his fourth hit of the contest.

The winners outlived the visitors, sixteen to eleven. The game was punctuated by five home runs, two by Cockrane and one by Jackson, Grace and Dunlap.

Many at Opening OF NEW GOLF LINKS

The Humpty-Dumpty miniature golf course, located in the rear of the Engle Floral Co., Dayton Hill, was crowded with players all evening Thursday, the occasion being the formal opening of the attractive new eighteen-hole links.

A replica of a miniature course operated on the Shroyer Road in Oakwood, suburb of Dayton, the local links was designed and built for Arthur Hornick, Xenia, by Al J. Hodapp, Dayton, O., and is one of the most attractive in this locality.

Extending over a wide expanse of ground, the entire tract has been sodded, decorated with shrubbery and is most picturesque.

Par for the eighteen holes is forty-eight strokes but few players were able to come close to this figure on opening night.

MERCHANTS TO OPEN JAMESTOWN SERIES

Xenia Merchants and the Jamestown Independents will square off against each other on the Washington Park diamond Sunday afternoon in the opener of a three-game series to settle the disputed matter of Greene County baseball supremacy.

Clever Dick Wells will try to southpaw the Merchants to victory and the Bowersville left-hander will be opposed by Evans, ace of the Jamestown hurling staff.

The three games of the series will not be played on consecutive Sundays.

JONES FINISHES WITH HEAD DOWN

JONES FINISHES WITH HEAD DOWN

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

The importance of keeping the head down will never become an important factor with the average golfer until he is hitting along in the eighties. It is at this point of his game that he realizes that the "look-up" spoils an approach, also an important drive.

There is no greater exponent of this trait than the famous Mr. Jones. He absolutely refuses to look up. If a shot is spoiled for Jones it is not for look-up reasons.

Of course, it is hard for the man who goes out several times a week, to play golf, to keep his head on the shot. He is on the course to get all the thrills possible and insists on looking up to see where his drive and iron is going.

If he would let the caddy watch the ball for him he would have no fear of getting off the fairway.

Not only is this "look-up" shot of such importance on the tee and fairway, but it is true on the greens. The action is not as noticeable when putting for the pin but every starting golfer will look up to watch the ball fall in the hole.

Looking up pulls up the shoulder, that important factor in putting the punch into the shot.

Note in the illustration of Jones, the advantage points in keeping the head down.

The shoulder goes through the ball at (A). The wrists roll out toward the hole at (B), the right leg comes up at (C) and he hits the ball on the stiff leg at (D).

All these points hit a straight ball, far and reasonably low. These may be developed only by keeping the head down on the ball. There may be a tendency to hook or slice for a few holes, but the shot will groove itself.

MINIATURE LINKS IN YELLOW SPRINGS

Yellow Springs, following the lead of almost every other community in Greene County, is to have a miniature golf course.

An eighteen-hole bantam links will be formally opened there Saturday afternoon by Oscar Day and it will be known as the Lone Oak course, located on Xenia Ave. opposite Erbaugh's drug store.

Prizes will be awarded low score holders on the first day, it is announced.

Par for the course has been fixed at thirty-four strokes.

N. Y. STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Aug. 15.—Irregularity and dullness ruled again in the stock market as active stocks were whipped back and forth in an extremely narrow range and mostly in response to the action of the professionals. The bears hammered Warner Brothers and Kennecott Copper in the forenoon in response to the increasing rumors of a cut in Kennecott dividend and the announcement of a new offering of Warner stock at $20 a share. This selling unsettled the whole list for a short period only, after which the best grade of industrials led in a moderate rally.

There was little change of importance in industrial and financial conditions. The $59,000,000 decrease in brokers loans was in line with expectations, but brokers loans are no longer regarded as a factor of commanding importance in speculative circles. Progress in drought-relief measures was announced from Washington. Cotton lost $1 a bale on the heavy carry-over.

FARMER MUST KEEP UP WITH TIMES
TABER SAYS AT GRANGE PICNIC

"A Changing Agriculture," was the subject of the address delivered by L. J. Taber, Columbus, master of the National Grange, at the annual picnic of Greene County Fairgrounds, Thursday. More than 300 people were in attendance during the day.

Mr. Taber, who has been in Washington for the past fifteen months, is considered an authority on farmer's legislation and his talk was delivered from this viewpoint. "The farmer must fit himself to the changing conditions that have been taking place in the last twenty years if he expects to keep up with the times," Mr. Taber said. "This change may be for bet-

HOME PRECINCTS OF
CANDIDATES SHOW
VOTE SIDELIGHTS

Tabulation of the unofficial vote of the home precincts of the sixteen candidates for office on the local Republican ticket at Tuesday's primary discloses interesting sidelights on the election.

Four candidates lost their own precincts, namely, Attorney James P. Kyle, candidate for prosecutor; John A. North, candidate for commissioner; B. F. Thomas, candidate for recorder; and R. O. Copsey, candidate for treasurer.

C. A. Jacobs, who won the nomination for commissioner in a three-cornered contest, was trailing John A. North by four votes until the last precinct of the forty-eight reported about 2 a. m. Wednesday. This happened to be Beaver Creek Twp. east, Jacobs' own precinct, which came through for him with a large plurality.

Here are the figures on the vote of home precincts of each candidate:

County Commissioner
Xenia Twp. southeast (Eavey's precinct)—Eavey, 49; Jacobs, 41; North, 22. Beaver Creek Twp. east (Jacobs' precinct)—Eavey, 9; Jacobs, 203; North, 28. Xenia No. 10 (North's precinct)—Eavey, 34; Jacobs, 64; North, 48.

State Representative

Out To Stay Out—Roots and All
Magic Oxygen Salts Bath Never Fails.
No More Burning Aching Feet.

No matter how many corns you have or how painful they are—soak your feet for 15 minutes in a delightfully soothing and revitalizing Radox footbath for 3 or 4 nights—then lift corns and callouses right out—roots and all and they won't come back either unless you wear shoes again which aggravate your feet.

No cutting or digging is required because Radox liberates oxygen which softens hard outer layers of corns, each night penetrating the pores further and further, carrying the salts right to roots of corns which are so loosened they can be lifted out bodily.

Your feet are made strong—healthy—vigorous—hard skin on heels and toes goes also.

Sayre's Drug Store and all good drug stores are stocked with Radox—if they aren't insist upon them ordering it if you want to experience great foot-joy and comfort.

She Swims to Conquer

READ THIS FIRST:

Kitty Wilmot, secretary to Elery Goss, assists Gordon Platt, Goss' confidential man, in running down a "leak" in the office. Atlee, Goss' chief clerk, offends Kitty with too violent love making. After meeting Boss Kelliher at a party given by Hilda, blond phone operator, at Platt's request she gets to know Hattie Bridges, another of Goss' secretaries, at whose house she meets Joe Fortune, of whom Kitty has heard, long in love with Sally! Kitty lists all possible suspects of the leak and determines to be active, not passive, in the work for Platt. She indignantly refuses to come to the telephone on hearing Kelliher wants her.

Sunday afternoon at the natatorium, Atlee asks her to marry him.

She tells Sally and Baby, apparently not surprising the little girl as Kitty had expected. But she confesses she has not accepted him. On her way home she is accosted by Boss Kelliher, who asks her to work for him "for one of these every month." He lays a thousand dollar bill in her hands!

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER 19

Kitty got into her bathing suit in the East Side Natatorium excitedly. The telegram the night before specifying hour and place, signed Gordon, spelled adventure! She was warm with happiness over his thoughtfulness. "If you are detained at office, I'll wait."

But she had not been detained. He was down in the pool, waiting. What sort of a pool? Did it have a high diving stand? Was it long enough to let her "show off"? A little, Kitty had a very human desire to exhibit her prowess to the man who so deeply attracted her. Only once had he seen her in a swimming suit, a memory of her caught breath at that first look came to her.

In her prettiest silk racing suit which fitted as if she had been poured into it she ran into the tank room. It was different from the Columbia Natatorium. Rather a low celled enclosure she thought it, the pool, wide as it was long, crowded with perhaps a hundred men and women.

Gordon found her before she saw him and put out a firm hand to hers. "You look good to me!" he said. She thrilled again; his voice said more than the words. He turned to the tank: "Do you know any of them?"

"I don't think so—should I?" "There's Kay Mullin; she's supposed to be material for the Olympic." I see Mrs. Wedderburn—she's quite a wizard at diving. There's Bruce O'Hara—he's a distance man—and Oh, look! There's the 'East Side Hope.' Hope Graham. You'll have plenty of competition!"

"Competition? This isn't a meet or anything, is it?"

Gordon did not answer. They plunged in and swam slowly across the pool; Kitty using a slow breast stroke, Gordon crawling. "Don't you show me up too soon!" he demanded, grinning at her. "I know you are good!"

"I don't want to show any one up—least of all, you!" Kitty splashed the words out. A big man on the coping who looked as if he ought to have a cigar in the corner of his mouth and a derby cocked over one ear, reached an unnecessary hand to Kitty.

"Could you show him up, Miss?" he asked. "He's pretty good! Evening, Platt! Haven't seen you for some time!"

"Hello, Tom!" Gordon responded. "Miss Wilmot, Mr. Gayle. Yes, she could show me up! Some fish. Beat anything here?"

"So?" answered Mr. Gayle, staring. "So?"

In a low tone Platt answered. Gayle turned to look at Kitty, first curiously, then respectfully and said: "We're very informal here on the East Side. I'm going to introduce you to Miss Graham. She needs competition—will you swim a little heat with her?"

"Wait!" he answered.

Kitty looked at Gordon for guidance. He nodded, encouraging. "Please do!" he said. "I want to see how she's coming; she's an entry in the inter-state!"

Mr. Gayle brought Miss Graham over and introduced her. Kitty saw a short, stocky, masculine girl with the swiftest muscles of a swimmer, and just enough fat to keep her warm. Miss Graham was very polite. "Awwfully good of you, Miss Wilmot!" she said. "I do need some competition. My teammates don't give it to me. By the laughter in her eyes Kitty saw she didn't believe the slender girl in the racing suit could give it to her. "I don't think I remember you in any meets!"

"No," said Kitty. "I have never taken part in a meet—except little country club swims." "Kitty followed her to the deep end. She didn't see how they could swim in that crowded pool, but she didn't know the East Side methods. Mr. Gayle stood on the spring board with a megaphone. "Let's clear the pool and have a little fun!" he bellowed. "East Side Hope is going to show Miss Up State how to swim!" As the pool cleared as if by magic an elderly man approached Mr. Gayle. Kitty overheard only a word; "Five to one—sure, grands." Miss Graham turned to Kitty curiously. "Look here, child, can you really swim?"

"A little," answered Kitty modestly. She was completely at a loss when the thin man said to Miss Graham: "Split twenty eighty. Hope. Easy pin money."

The race was to be four lengths; a little over a hundred yards. As they stood ready to plunge, Platt whispered to Kitty: "Don't win this by any more than you need—understand?"

"Oh, I expect to be beaten!" answered Kitty carelessly. "I haven't swam a race for ages!"

They poised on the edge of the tank. The crowd on the coping grew silent as the life guard raised his hand. "Ready? Set! One—Two—Three—Go!"

Kitty came to the surface in stride. Graham was two yards ahead and ten to her left. She was swimming a smooth, even, but very rapid stroke. "Too fast for distance!" said Kitty to herself. "And she beat the gun!" A little smile of contempt swept across her lips. Her father had taught her all her life that the only races worth winning were won honestly. "Professionals may race for the money; you swim for sport!" he told her. "Never try to beat the gun. It's not sport!"

Graham was good, but Kitty was not worried after the first length and a half. She made up the two yards on the turn. In the tank race the swimmer must touch the wall, turn and kick off for the return trip, an art in which half seconds are won and lost. Half seconds win hundred yard races! Kitty had been taught a smooth swift turn timed to her stroke.

She was not pressed. She snaked through the water with her effortless, eel-like, six-beat crawl, almost splashless; a stroke which had complete continuity of motion. Graham jerked a little. Jerks lose power; lost power means lost speed. Only one swimmer in ten thousand ever obtains that absolutely level progress in which the propulsion of one arm pick up as the other lets go, so that the body moves evenly like a fish, not in a series of plunges, like a frog. Kitty's swallowlike perfection was her substitute for great muscular development.

Two lengths Kitty beat Graham on the turn, gaining a yard. She heard yells from the side lines. Remembering Gordon's request she promptly slackened up and let Graham draw level with her. The stocky girl glanced at her, appraisingly. "She'll let out a little!" thought Kitty. "I thought New York had the best swimmers in the world!"

Neck and neck at the last turn. Graham did "let out" with a sudden burst of speed. Had it taken Kitty by surprise it must have won the race before she knew it. But she was on the watch, and stepped up her own stroke. Kitty held her opponent even for three-fourths of the tank; with twenty feet to go she flashed all she had on her stroke, and touched the wall a yard ahead of Miss Graham to be pulled out of the water by a

in your heating plant

If you have one of those boilers or furnaces that fill the house with soot, smoke and fumes—and then fails to give the desired temperature for comfort and health—you should know JANITROL, the automatic gas furnace man.

He is the "family friend" who has brought the many advantages of gas heat to countless homes—some, your neighbors.

He enters most furnaces or boilers without "fuss" and stays on the job—always responding to the slightest movement of the thermostat upstairs and to every weather change. The home is kept at the healthful temperature at all times—without attention.

Come down and let us introduce you to JANITROL. You will like this automatically controlled janitor—he will change your present boiler or furnace to an up-to-date home heating plant—at little cost. Drop into our office or call the heating department.
